Chairman's Word

As we graduate the Cohort of 2024, I am so very proud. This year, we have worked doubly hard to compensate for a slow market and the students have come out with flying colors. Here're my favorite stats from this year:

- * Strong results in niches of VC, Founders' Offices, AI & International placements
- * ~15% students founded startups and 4 raised VC funds of $200K before graduating, and some even pitched at Shark Tank
- * Student favorites Zomato & Zepto made 12+ offers each
- * The combined revenue from Dropshipping soared to almost 3.3Cr. in Term 1 (Cohort 2025) . itself.

Next year, my goal is to get more even AI focussed companies to visit the campus & explore emerging technologies which will drive the world moving forward. Most importantly, we want 30% of our cohort to create jobs and have an even larger impact on India's growth story.

Can the experiential learning of Masters' Union be the Indian MBA alternative?

When one thinks of pursuing an MBA at an Indian institution, it's common to imagine a rigorous admission process, a demanding curriculum with strict project deadlines, and a high likelihood of securing a lucrative job post graduation. However, despite the reputation of India's legacy colleges like the IIMs, India still falls behind in global college rankings.

QS World University Rankings for Business School has only two Indian universities—IIM-Ahmedabad at rank 51 and IIM-Bangalore at 61. Despite the growing demand and competitiveness of business courses in India, what are Indian colleges lacking? "Our legacy universities want to maintain just that—legacy. They do not alter the syllabus to keep
